M Ryan Taylor, composer vocalist

"Incredible!" "Beautiful music." "I was deeply touched." . . . were some of the comments from audience members during the workshop production of M. Ryan Taylor's chamber opera THE OTHER WISE MAN, his second opera. Taylor's first opera, ABINADI, which was produced by Brigham Young University on the mainstage in 2003, has been aired numerous times on KBYU and BYUtv. Lawrence Vincent, director of BYU opera commented, "[Taylor] . . . recognizes that the music often plays an important role in helping to describe movements on the stage." Vincent later engaged Taylor to write a song cycle entitled A LIGHT THAT SHAMES THE NOONDAY SUN and was premiered by Vincent in December of 2005. Other notable song cycles include ALL HEAVEN AND IT WAS ONE HOUR OLD, LEAFS FROM THE DIARY OF AN OLD SOUL and THE MOON SONGS (a Vera Hinckley Mayhew Composition Competition winner in 2000).

Taylor brings his sensitive vocal writing, refined by his own university vocal studies, to his original choral music and sacred arrangements available at ChoirWorks.com. Also, as a former brass and wind player, Taylor is equally at home with instrumental chamber and orchestral music. He has written works that have been premiered or performed by the Utah Premiere Brass, The Chicago Brass, organists Neil Thornock and Carson Cooman, the Timpanogos Chorale, the American Fork Symphony and more.
